Environmental Project Coordinator

Frogtown Green, a resident-led initiative to promote healthy and sustainable uses of land in the Frogtown neighborhood, seeks a talented and enthusiastic individual to assist with the planning and coordination of FrogLab, an environmental learning project centered on a pond at Hmongtown Marketplace, a large outdoor market in Frogtown.

As FrogLab’s environmental learning coordinator, you will help develop detailed plans for an environmental restoration and education project that employs a beloved neighborhood totem—the frog—as a metaphor and catalyst for efforts to protect and enhance the lives of all creatures that survive in inner city neighborhoods such as Frogtown.

You will manage curriculum planning for frog-lovers of all ages and staff a semi-monthly summertime education booth at the Market. There will be many opportunities to learn more about the Frogtown neighborhood, as well as the work of Frogtown Green (information at www.frogtowngreen.com).

Qualifications: Creativity, reliability, resourcefulness, detail orientation, interest in Frogtown, interest in community development and alternative uses of land in urban settings. Previous experience planning or delivering nature-based curricula and/or biology or environmental studies training are a definite plus, as is fluency in Hmong.

The details
- April 1-September 30, 2016
- Paid contract, $12.50/hour, 200 hours, $2,500 total
- Grass roots organization with experienced supervisor

Interested?
Send a cover letter and resume by February 29 to Frogtown Green, 843 Van Buren Avenue, Saint Paul, 55104. Emails are accepted: info@frogtowngreen.com.

Questions, call Frogtown Green coordinator Patricia Ohmans: 651-757-5970.